VOL. 3 No. 10

WASHINGTON, D.C.

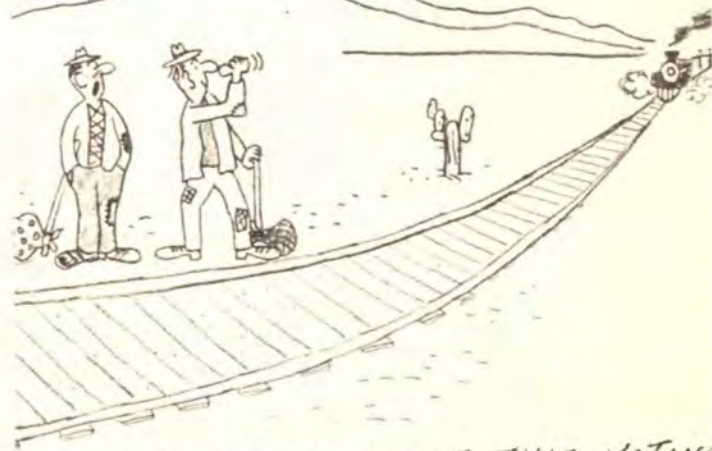

OCTOBER 1962

THE BOSS HAS GONE TO VOTE
I ASSUME?

BY JOVE! I MUST GET TO THE POLLING PLACE HIGGINS.

YER SERIOUS ABOUT THIS VOTING
BUSINESS AIN'T YE?

VOTE!

On the back page you will find a ballot for Club officers for 1963. There is one name after each post and room for a write-in candidate. VOTE TODAY and send your ballot to Chris Lample, SM-3.

Please write your name, home address, and reference number on the bottom of the ballot. After checking to see that you are a qualified regular member, your name will be detached before counting the ballots. It is most important that we receive your name and home address. Beginning in June our Club news and announcements will be sent to your home in addition to a small office circulation.

The ballot has one name for each office. Why aren't there more? People are hard to find - the picnic was a good example. Never before have so few done so much for so many. Charlie Lamm and his committee are to be commended for a wonderful day.

In the next issue we will review the year's activities, our financial status, and our plans for the forthcoming year under the officers you elect.

See you at the Christmas Dance, Dec. 21st at the Sheraton-Park Hotel.

FA Club Introduction to Investments Course

Chip Schratt, guest speaker, addressing the FA Club Investment Course. Chip, a 15-year-old sophomore at Washington-Lee High School, has attracted considerable attention by his grasp of investing. Photo by Washington Star for a financial article. Left to right: Mike Komar, Ralph Jordan, Merv Martin, George Pickard, Chip Schratt, Rose Hochstein, Larry Conant, M. Cary, Bud Lorenz, Lorenz Meyer, Dorcas Glascoe.

A new Introduction to Investments Course starts on Nov. 20 - call George Pickard, Extension 3439, for information and registration.

Jean Angert, AT-285, instructs the FA Club Shorthand Refresher students. If you are signed up for this course, see below:

Bookkeepers!

Over the past three or four years, a number of Shorthand Textbooks have been loaned to students taking the various Club Shorthand Courses. So many were loaned that we are running out - many of the books have not been returned and are still out "on loan." WE NEED THEM URGENTLY... These books were not gifts -- they are borrowed Government property, and must be returned. If you have one of these borrowed texts or know where one is, call Extension 3088. Books may be returned to PT-38.

Theatre Dates

The Longest Day Mutiny on the Bounty

The Club has an opportunity to obtain tickets for these two outstanding movies. The FAA nights and prices are:

The Longest Day - Wednesday Nov. 14, 8:30 PM, Ontario Theatre. The Regular $2.50 seats available for $2.00. The deadline for your request and money is November 9.

Mutiny on the Bounty - November 28, 8:30 PM, Warner Theatre. Regular $2.50 seats: $2.00; regular $1.85 seats for $1.45. Deadline for your request and money is November 19. Direct all requests for tickets to Tom Royals, IA-47 X3974.

Art Colony, FAA Style. Hilda Krevette explains things to a late-blooming artist in her FA Club painting class. Hilda is going into her 13th year of this popular activity.

Christmas Dance

On Friday evening, Dec. 21, we will hold our annual cocktail party and big Christmas dance at the Sheraton-Park Hotel. Jack Corry and his fine 12-piece orchestra will play for your dancing entertainment. Our usual big Christmas reception will start at 8:30, on the terrace leading into the same Sheraton Hall -- with the usual cocktails and goodies to get you into the Christmas spirit, and vice versa. For a Merry Evening, check the date, right now - DEC. 21, Friday. SHERATON-PARK.

Sports

As in the past, the Club will sponsor the bowling leagues in Maryland, D.C., and Virginia. This means there is a large team trophy for the winning team (last year's (Tenpin) Virginia League Club trophy was won by the ATC boys at the airport). Individual team trophies are given to the first & second place teams, also high score & high set trophies to those two individuals. So far this year, the Maryland Duckpin Group has organized teams under the Club. No word from the Virginia Tenpin yet.

Educational

Portfolio Planning Course - Starts Nov. 26. Call Larry Conant, Ext. 4965.
Introduction to Investments - Starts on Nov. 20. Call Geo. Pickard, Ext. 3439.

PICNIC TIME

Elsewhere in this issue, we give you some pictures of the Fort Hunt annual picnic. The following account was turned in by one of the engineers of the show, who for all we know may have been soaking up some of his own peculiar brand of picnic coffee, or maybe the poor fellow has been writing too many Govt. papers.

SUBJ: THE FORT HUNT PROJECT
CANCELLATION DATE: 9/30/62

Did you attend the Annual FA Club Picnic? If not, you missed a milestone of fun and excitement. Remember the activities portrayed on the poster and in the Picnic Issue of the News? Well there were those and others throughout the event, and reason to believe some of the poster characters showed up too.

The Director summoned his Managers and appointed Deputies and Assistants to form a System Design Team. The development of ideas, plans, and avenues of escape were conducted and Experimentation began immediately. Evaluation of progress indicated the project would not break ground as scheduled - (we had to cancel plans to have it at the new airport), whereupon Administrative Management began an Activities Analysis and elected to regroup. The Design Team charged onward.

Applications Engineering began with Support Systems the necessary Data Acquisition, Processing and Display via complex Communications Systems to provide Standards and Integration of the original Navigation Course (Ed. note: they also bought popcorn). Now the acid test was at hand. "MAKE IT WORK". The Design Team charged onward.

Security Clearance was established at our own Check Point Charlie and the Aviation Club Medical Corps camped near by. Surveillance and automatic interference rejection was maintained by Rap-on Brand. The Design Team charged onward.

The Java Dispensary began to resemble the Snack Bar stampede during office hours. Public relations in a desperate attempt to appease the caffeine captives activated two urns simultaneously and blew a pair of fuses. Installations was asked for changes in the specifications and Maintenance gray matter was used to get the circuit, which was shot, hot. The Design Team charged onward.

Visual Displays informed Management Services the landline would not reach the terminal Area and the movie could not begin. Relocation of the facility was not possible because the Director of Plant and Structures (the van driver) had evacuated his office and apparently gone on leave. An "OPS-IMMEDIATE Directive" was issued and back up equipment plugged into the system to solve the problem. Design Team still charged onward.

Operations were well underway when a chap called Jack something-or-other (small-size) voiced his opinion of the entire operation. He didn't draw as much water as a Project Manager so his remarks were stricken from the record. Goodies-N-Goo were requisitioned and distributed by large and small carriers over a large area while horse-flesh and steel burned under Western and Railroad enthusiasts in grim competition. The Design Team smiled.

The sounds "Whoosh" "Crack" "Clippity-Clop Clop" "Pow!" "Yerrout" and "WAAT" plus a few unmentionable mutterings identified the ball game beginning. Who said Ole Tigers have no teeth? There was one Terrific Play. It was daring, and close, and just great, and the player got hurt too just like the Majors, but other than a few bee perforations that was the only reported injury. The day was filled with events that included Hawk-eyed Putting, Shattering Egg Throwing, Torso Twisting Dances, and lost parents. It ended with a drawing for a varied assortment of prizes and all departed. The Design Team was POOPED.
