

Data Collected during physical tests; pilot deployments, or technology demonstrations. This includes raw or semi-processed measurements from real-world experiments, such as sensor readings, field observations, or performance data from prototype systems.