What Is the V2X Interoperability Help Desk?

The help desk is your direct line to technical experts supporting your V2X deployment. Whether you're selecting equipment, creating MAP messages, integrating signal phase and timing, or troubleshooting data flow, the help desk is here to help ensure interoperability and compliance with standards.

Why Use the Help Desk?

- Personalized technical support: Get answers to your deployment-specific questions.
- Interoperability assistance: Align with national standards and effective practices.
- Access to tools and templates: Save time with vetted, open-source resources.
- Connect with other available resources: Learn how to engage with loan programs, testbeds, and peer networks.

All at no cost to you!

Common Topics We Support:
